

Neil Chatterjee
Director of Market Management, Expedia Group

With an international background in marketing and project management, Neil has worked with Expedia for the past 5 years, starting as a Market Manager for Stockholm, then Area Manager for Sweden & Norway and now as Director for the Nordics. Neil has lived, studied and worked globally – born and brought up in India, educated in Australia and Denmark, and lived in Switzerland, the UK and now, Sweden for the past 10 years. Neil leads a team of 50 people in the Market Management team for the Nordics – Sweden, Denmark, Norway, Iceland and Finland.

The Market Management team is the first point of contact for our partners, and onboards, develops and nurtures a wide portfolio of hotel and property products across our territories. The team continuously works with Expedia Groups property partners to help them maximize the production potential from their participation in the Expedia marketplace by smartly utilizing the power of Expedia Group's unique data insights, marketing, distribution and revenue management toolset. This role is the core on which the Market Management team is based. The team ensures that the Expedia Group brands' global customers always find the most suitable hotel for their dream trip wherever they want to go, and that our hotel partners can effectively, efficiently and throughout the year, reach Expedia Group's full breadth of global traveler demand.
