

Call for papers: Flexible Work Patterns Study Group ILERA World Congress 2021

The 19th ILERA World Congress, Lund, Sweden, 21–24 June 2021

The Flexible Work Patterns Study Group will meet online on the morning of Monday 21st or Sunday 20th June. The group covers all aspects of flexible work issues including part-time work, telework, home working, shift work, flexible hours, compressed working week, zero hours contracts and other temporary and flexible arrangements. The meeting brings together scholars to network and discuss work in progress or recently completed in an informal setting. Papers from doctoral students are very welcome.

Abstracts of papers are invited on any aspects of flexible working and may be at the macro, organisational or individual level; theoretically based, or on empirical research that is country, region, sector or organisation specific.

The pandemic has accelerated the use of flexible working and it is a particularly apt time to reflect on continuity and change in the field.

All conference participants are welcome to attend and present at this online event

Abstracts should be about 500 words and include:

- Paper title
- Name(s) of authors, institutional affiliation and contact details
- Aim
- Theoretical/Research framework
- Method
- Findings
- Discussion/Conclusion

Please send the abstract as a word file to c.edwards@kingston.ac.uk; clare.kelliher@cranfield.ac.uk by April 30th, 2021 at the latest.

Please get in touch if you need further information.

We look forward to receiving your abstracts

Professor Christine Edwards

Professor Clare Kelliher

More information on the group can be found at <https://ilo-ilera.org/study-groups>

Congress details can be found at <https://www.ileraworldcongress2021.se>